(St. Paul, MN) – The Minnesota Administrators for Special Education (MASE) has named Dr. Sarah Mittelstadt, Executive Director of Southern Plains Education Cooperative, the 2023 Special Education Administrator of the Year. Dr. Mittelstadt has received this award for her dedication to students with disabilities and their families, and her active involvement in professional and community affairs. She will be honored at a statewide recognition ceremony during the MASA/MASE Spring Conference held March 9-10, 2023.

“Sarah has made significant contributions to the field of special education. She generously shares her knowledge, experience, and time to mentor and support fellow special education leaders and displays a passion for improving programming for students with disabilities,” Jamie Nord, Executive Director of St. Croix River Education District and MASE President, in her letter of support. “Sarah has set an example of how to give back and serve others in the field through her dedicated professional organization involvement. She is highly regarded by her MASE colleagues and other educational leaders across the state for her leadership and service.”

Dr. Mittelstadt has nearly two decades of experience as a Special Education Administrator. She has served as the Executive Director of Southern Plains Education Cooperative since 2011. Under Dr. Mittelstadt’s leadership, Southern Plains Education Cooperative leads five member districts in managerial guidance, cooperative staffing, and consulting of 140 staff members to meet the educational needs of more than 800 special education students. She has demonstrated exceptional skill and creative problem-solving in the recruiting, onboarding, and training of new special educators in the face of significant staffing shortages. In addition, Dr. Mittelstadt recently facilitated the design, financing, and renovation to create an $11M facilities project to accommodate alternative educational services for member districts. The project was completed $750,000 under budget.

As an active member of MASE, Dr. Mittelstadt has an extensive history of leadership within the association, including Area Representative, President Elect, President, and currently Past-President of the MASE Board of Directors. She has served as Federal Advocacy Chair, co-chair of the Legislative and Business Partnership Committees, and as member of the Nominating,
